TION SCHENE_ANOTHER BLOW TO BE STRUCK AT CIVIL GOVERNMENT AT THE SOUTH-THE COTTON CROP-CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS WASHINGTON, January 11 .- The House Comupon a bill to be reported on Monday, declaring that there are no civil governments in the lately rebellious States, and that the provisional governments shall not be recognized as valid or legal, either by the executive or judicial authorities of the United States. I order to secure the speedy enforcement of the several reconstruction laws, the general of the army is authorized to remove all officers now employed and appoint others for the performance of all acts required by those statutes, to the end that the people of the said several States may speedily organize civil governments, under a republican form, and be restored to their political power in the Union. The General of the army is also empowered to remove all civil officers and appoint others in their places. So much of the reconstruction acts as authorizes the President to detail the military commanders or remove others is repealed. The bill declares that it is unlawful for the President to order any part of the army or navy to assist, by force of arms. the military of those provisional governments to oppose or obstruct the authority of the United States. The bill further declares that the interference by any person, with intent to prevent by force, the execution of the orders of tne General of the army shall be held to be a high misdemeanor, and that the party guilty thereof, on conviction, shall be fined not exceeding five thousand dollars, and imprisoned not exceeding two years. The bill repeals all parts of the reconstruction acts inconsistent with the above provisions. Mr. Stevens voted

THE "HIRAM" HANDLE TO HIS NAME-WHAT THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN WOULD DEVELOP THE CONSERVATIVE PRESIDENTIAL CONVEN-TION-THE PROGRAMME OF THE SOUTHERN WHITES IN REGARD TO IT-FURTHER CON-GRESSIONAL INTERPOSITIONS ANTICIPATED-A RADICAL CAUCUS.

The Washington correspondent of the Baltiore Cazette, writes under date of January.9 : more Cazette, writes under date of January.9:

However absurd it may seem, yet I am assured that the prospects of Grant have been essentially damaged by the recent development that his real name is not "U.S.," but "Hiram U. Grant." The author of the biographical sketch of his life lately published has, in other respects, done him serious injury. Perhaps no man's career is less interesting in incidents proper to be divulged. Besides, it has served to draw public attention to the General's antecedents; and in unfriendly, or even impartial, hands a sketch of his doings and saytisl, hands a sketch of his doings and say-ings before and during the war would not add much to his availability as a Presidential much to his availiability as a Presidential candidate. Of course such strictures will be out of place until he shall have been formally candidate. Of course such strictures will be out of place until he shall have been formally presented for public scrutiny. When he shall have accepted the infamous Radical platform of negro supremacy, he must expect to have his whole conduct, military, civil and social, laid bare to an admiring, or, it may be, to a disgusted world.

It is understood that the unrepresented States will send delegates to the Conservative Presidential Convention. I also learn that it is in contemplation by the whites of the South to hold separate elections for Presidential electors, and to disregard the Reconstruction acts in this respect. The President is understood to favor this movement. In a certain contingency the moral effect at least would be potent indeed. With an actual united South, and a majority of the Northern States, Congress would not dare to inaugurate a President upon the strength of the negro vote.

There is no longer any doubt but that Congress will pass some law by which the governation of the Southern States will be numered at of registration to vote on the ratification of the

I learn that it has also been determined to declare the constitutions enacted by the negroes operative without a confirmatory vote of the people. The passage of Senator Morton's resolution to-day looking towards these ends was only prevented, it is thought, by the expiration of the morning hour. In other respects the proceedings of Congress were without special political interest.

An informal caucus of several Radical Sena-tors was held yesterday morning to decide upon some definite amendment to the Recon-struction bill. The most extreme Senators ad-vocated passing a simple bill abolishing all civil State Governments in the South, and commence the entire work of reconstruction over again, but putting the new plan in such shape that it would not be in the power of the President to interfere with the work. This, however, was not agreed to, and the meeting broke up without coming to any definite conup without coming to any definite con-

TINKERING AND CHANGES PROPOSED,

The Radical onslaught on Gen. Hancock for The Radical observation of the Hancock for vindicating the civil power has commenced in good earnest. On inquiry, however, it was ascertained that the case which involves the validity of these laws has not yet been considered by the court. The bridge that once spanned the ravine between the palace on Zion and the temple on Moriah is now proved to have been upwards of one hundred and fifty feet high. If this be, as it seems, the ascent to the house of the Lord which Solomon showed to the Queen of Sheba, we cannot wonder that, on seeing it, there was no spirit in her. The pinnacle of the temple on which the tempter placed the Saviour, has just which the tempter placed the Saviour, has just been uncovered to the base, and is found still to have an elevation of one hundred and thirty-six feet. The statement of Josephus is therefore no exaggeration. "If any one looked from the battlements into the valley he would be giddy, while his sight could not reach to

There is no doubt whatever of the resolute purpose of the dominant party in Congress to press to the bitter end with their scheme of reconstruction a perpetual Radical supremacy in the South, and as soon as may be a bill of the character indicated by Mr. Morton's resolution will be pushed through both Houses. The prominent Radicals here are impatient at the tarty working of their reconstruction acts.

Bishop Hopkins was senior Bishop of the Episcopal Church. He was born in Dublin on the 30th of January, 1792, and was therefore in the seventy-sixth year of his age at the time of his decease. He was intended for the law, but after receiving a classical education he passed a year in a counting-room in Philadelphia. In his nineteenth year he commenced the manufacture of iron in Pennsylvania, and five years later married a daughter of Caspar Otto Muller, a retired merchant of Baltimore. Having lost all his means by the prostration of the iron trade, consequent upon the peace of 1315, he turned his attention to the law, and in 1818 was admitted to the bar in Pittsburg. After purturned his attention to the law, and in 1818 was admitted to the bar in Pittsburg. After pursuing his profession for several years he entered the ministry, and when ordained was chosen, in 1824, rector of Trinity Church, Pittsburg, where he soon became prominent. In the Diocesan Convention of 1827, he was nominated for the office of Assistant Bishon of Pennsylvania. Dr. H. U. Onderdonk was nominated for the office of Assistant Bishop of Pennsylvania, Dr. H. U. Onderdonk being the opposing candidate. The votes being equally divided, Mr. Hopkins cast his vote for Mr. Onderdonk, and thus secured the election of the latter. In 1831 Mr. Hopkins was called to Trinity Church, Boston, an assistant minister, and was chosen soon afterwards Professor of Systematic Divinity in the Theological Seminary in that State. In the spring of 1832 he was elected first Bishop of Vermont, serving at the same time as rector of St. Paul's Church, seminary in that State. In the spring of 1832 he was elected first Bishop of Vermont, serving at the same time as rector of St. Paul's Church, Burlington. In 1836 he resigned his rectorship to devote himself more unreservedly to the charge of the diocese, and to the building up of the Vermont Episcopal Institute. Last year Bishop Hopkins attended the Pan Anglican Synod, held at London. He was all his life a diligent student and a prolife writer. In
